*There may be exceptions

Certain items stay or go depending on whether they're permanently installed and built-in. Freestanding clothes washers and dryers go with the seller, but built-in units would likely stay. A grill on wheels on the patio leaves, but one that's encased in stone as part of outdoor kitchen stays put. Three factors determine if something is permanently installed and built-in:

- How is the item attached? Will the property be damaged by its removal?
- Is the item customized or standard for the property?
- Was the installation intended to be permanent or temporary?

SELLERS

If you want to exclude items from the sale—a dining room chandelier, for example—the contract includes a place for that. Have your Texas REALTOR® help you properly document your intent.

BUYERS

You can request items that aren't included in the contract stay behind. Do you want the patio furniture? Your REALTOR® will use a different form, Non-Realty Items Addendum, to put your request in writing.
